

(ST-022) Kunming-Lijiang-Trekking Tiger Leaping Gorge to Haba Snow Mountain to White Water Terrace-Zhongdian-Kunming (9 Days)

Challenging Grade: 2 (mild to moderate, involves 4-5 hours trekking per day)

Yunnan is amazed the world by the mysterious culture of the minority and the beautiful natural scenery.

Tiger Leaping Gorge is believed to be the deepest gorge in the world, lying between Jade Dragon Snow Mountain and Haba Snow Mountain. Haba Snow Mountain's main peak is 5396m above sea level, capped with snow all year around. The attraction is attributed to the towering peaks and its alpine lake, endless tracks of azalea flowers, cluster of waterfalls cascading down snow-covered cliffs, and rich animal resources. Haba is an interesting township beneath the Haba Snow Mountain. It is primarily of interest to hikers and those who enjoy exploring remote and more traditional villages.

Shangri-La was described as a heaven away from the turbulent mundane world in James Hilton's novel "The lost Horizon" in 1933 that sparked a legend and brought fame to an unknown and almost untouched place called Shangri-La. "Shangri-La" is a Tibetan word meaning "land of sacredness and peace". Finally, in Sept. 1997, the government of Yunnan province declared that Shangri-La had been discovered in Zhongdian, Diqing, a prefecture in Yunnan province.
